

Silvia Barbotto

UADY, Universidad Autónoma de Yucatán, México. (from Italy, University of Turin)

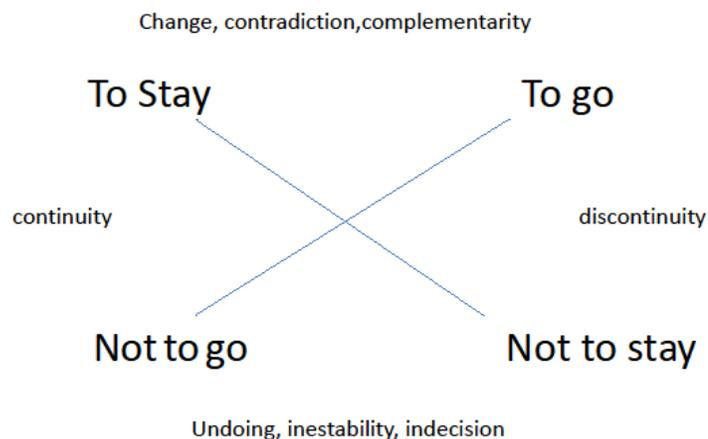

Silvia.barbotto@gmail.com

In-between: paradox of staying and going in migration iussue.

Key word: ethnography multisituational , migration, travel, trandisciplinarity, semiotic, paradox.

Since the gipsy and nomads civilization, crossing to the migrant movement and the travelers attitude, the people is use to be on movement. Even that, we know that in physic, physical and emotional way, is needed a sort of statement that generates steps, between a displacement and another one. Now a day, the migration as the principle macro movement of persons in the world can be lived for different reasons and with different attitudes as vehicle of pleasure or needs, healthy or economics staffs. Anyone of that, frustrated or gratify life style, the transition and the continues “go and stay” or “be here and think about there” can generate a paradox. The article will have a theory and an ethnographic part elaborated with Mexican/American people in México United States.

PARADOX OF STAYING AND GOING

CAN GENERATE A NEW WAY OF BEING IN-BETWEEN